Neutral Journalism.

The Silver Party County Central Committee has secured the use of one of our columns (see first page) through which to address the voters of this county. The Courier will take no part in the political contest now waging, as among its readers and patrons are many leading members of both political parties. But our advertising columns are conducted for revenue only and are open to any one who desires to use them. Any man can have his say, if he is willing to pay a reasonable price for it and can put it in readable shape.—Genoa Courier.

The Courier has got the business down fine. We are not so sure but that it is the best way.

The Courier sails along making no enemies in either party and wiping the long green dough in from both. It enjoys a good circulation and advertising patronage from both sides and by eating the bread of care, fulness maketh hay while the sun shines and oweth nobody a cent.

We party organs, however, are everlastingly belted by the enemy and all the money we make in a campaign from one side, is lost by the other side withdrawing their patronage.

Verily it takes these country editors in the rural districts to be up to snuff early in the morning before the dew is off the grass.

Lucky Portland.

The Bar Association of Portland, Or., seems to be something more than a lunch society. It has brought suit for the disbarment of three local attorneys, strongly charged with conduct unbecoming a person who has assumed the obligations and given the pledges imposed upon attorneys by the law. It is well known that there are members of the bar in this city who are distrusted and despised by all who know them, and to whom no man acquainted with their character would entrust a dollar's worth of business. It seems to us that the Bar Association should take action in such cases. In the meantime we congratulate Portland on having a bar association.—S. F. Daily Report.

There are rascals in the profession in Nevada, but the members of the profession seem afraid to disbar them for conduct that would merit stripes and rock cracking in a penitentiary.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is in perfect consonance with the fitness of things that the Enterprise should talk of the poor-house for miners. It represents and reflects the sentiment of money kings of the East who only seek protection for themselves at the expense of other people, and especially at the expense of the miners of Nevada. Its columns are always laudatory of the party that has at all times and on all occasions been most deadly in its aims and purposes against the production and use of silver as money. It is now advocating the election of a man to Congress who has always manifested a higher allegiance to party than devotion to the remonetization of silver, and the consequent relief to silver miners.

It is a very opportune time, but not exactly suited to its purpose, to call the attention of miners to the poor house, for those who are not altogether heedless will accept it as a warning and vote for the nominees of the Silver party, with full assurance that they will use every endeavor to relieve the depression of silver mining, and restore general prosperity to the people of this State.

The Carson News says George Richard has practically been State Treasurer for twelve years. This is a fact, as he was deputy under Tuffy and Egan both. But how much longer must he have the position? Admitting that he is an honest man, are there not others as honest and trustworthy as Mr. Richard? What about Mr. Westerfield, the Silver party nominee for this position? Is he not honest, capable, etc? We'll tell you there cannot be found a better man for the place than W. J. Westerfield, and he will prove it, for the four years coming after next January Mr. Westerfield will be the State Treasurer of Nevada. Mr. Richard ought to step out and give someone else have a show. He has had a fat position for twelve years, and that is long enough for any man to hold office in Nevada.—Lyon County Times.

Large gobs of campaign mud fill the atmosphere in California. So far mud throwing has been confined to a very small space in Nevada.
